(Program Dates: July 1 - August 26, 2016)

20 slots will be offered to both international and domestic students to undertake hands-on laboratory experience.

Financial support will be provided to participating students such as return airfare, accommodation and scholarship during the program period of July 1 to August 26, 2016.

During the eight-week, students will gain research knowledge, and opportunity to network with other students and professionals, and gain invaluable insight to life as a graduate student. In addition to research experience, students also participate in a two-day symposium and various workshops and other educational and cultural based activities.
