Students of Universitas Gadjah Mada (UGM) have won the Fusion Innovative Contest 2019, running from 10-12 October 2019 at Bandung Institute of Technology (ITB).

With members Joko Purwo Leksono YP, Qooi Insanu Putra, and Dwi Nurarifah, the team won the competition by submitting a system development of student mental health using university internet networks integration.

The system named as Mojitive was made under the guidance of Fuad Hamsyah, S.Psi., M.Sc.

"The system is developed as an effort to increase student's awareness on the importance of maintaining their mental health and increasing literacy on this subject," said Joko on Thursday (17/10).

The system is used as a monitoring method of the student's mental health development. It is done through a map of the spread of mental health disorder.

"Besides, monitoring of such mental health is done from time to time," he explained.

Fusion Innovative Contest 2019 is a competition organised by IEEE ITB Student Branch, raising the theme Technology for Humanity. It has five sub-themes, namely Renewable Energy, Financial Technology, Social Technology, Health Technology and Eco-Friendly Technology. Graduate students from Asian universities took part in the event.
